

Harry Harrison

Veterinary surgeon with an interest in the natural environment, permaculture, food systems and strong vibrant communities. Has worked with numerous community groups and sat on ethics and ministerial advisory committees. Sees climate change and peak oil as a symptom of a wider problem of the waste of resources. As president of the Rare Fruit Society of SA is on a steep learning curve. Always keen to share knowledge and help others achieve a more sustainable way of living.